DETAILED ACTION

This Office action is responsive to communication received 07/02/2004 – application papers filed; 09/07/2004 – Response to Notice to File Corrected Application Papers and drawings; 09/08/2004 – IDS; 02/28/2006 – Status Letter.

Claims 1-19 are pending.

Following is an action on the MERITS:

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the “right to exclude” granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-19 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-12 of U.S. Patent No. 6,994,637 in view of Lin ('641), Nagamoto ('356), Motomiya ('931) and Antonious ('134). The claimed invention of the '637 Patent shows every feature claimed except for a means for modifying the sound characteristics of the golf club head, the means being attached to the face component. As claimed by the instant application, the means for modifying the sound characteristics may be attached to the face or sole extension (claims 5 and 13), may include a ring or conical object (claims 6, 7, 14 and 15) may be attached to an exterior or interior portion of the face (claims 4, 9, 16 and 19), may extend around the aft-body portion of the head (claims 10-12, 17 and 18), and/or may include a mass in a specified range (claims 13 and 16). Each of the secondary references to Lin and Nagamoto show it to be old in the art to attach a supplemental element to the interior portion of a hollow club head in order to adjust the acoustic characteristics of the head. The remaining secondary references to Antonious and Motomiya show it to be old in the art to attach an element that must inherently provide a change in the acoustic response of the club head. It is noted that the addition of any added mass to the club head will necessarily have to alter the acoustics of the club head, if only by an incremental amount. For instance, the ribbing (28) extending along the aft-body in the Antonious patent must inherently change the acoustics of the head. Likewise, the bar (215) added to the interior of the sole and faceplate of the Motomiya device necessarily must change the acoustic response of the head. While the specific claimed "ring" or "conical shape" or "mass in the range of 1 gram to 10 grams" of the instant claims is not disclosed by the secondary references, any change over the shape and size including the mass of those elements shown by the secondary references would have been an obvious design variation thereof. Here again, any alteration of the club head will have some effect on the sound properties of the club head.

Claims 1-13 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-12 of U.S. Patent No. 6,739,982 in view of Lin ('641), Nagamoto ('356), Motomiya ('931) and Antonious ('134). Applicant is directed to the analysis used above when referencing the '637 Patent. A similar explanation follows for the '982 Patent and will not be repeated here, for brevity.

Claims 1-10 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-12 of U.S. Patent No. 6,758,763 in view of Lin ('641), Nagamoto ('356), Motomiya ('931) and Antonious ('134). Applicant is directed to the analysis used above when referencing the '637 Patent. A similar explanation follows for the '763 Patent and will not be repeated here, for brevity.

Terminal Disclaimer

Enclosed with this Office action is a sample terminal disclaimer which is effective to overcome an obviousness-type double patenting rejection over a prior patent (37 CFR 1.1321(b) and (c)).

Also enclosed is a sample Statement Under 37 CFR 3.73(b) (Form PTO/SB/96) which an assignee may use in order to ensure compliance with the rule. Part A of the Statement is used when there is a single assignment from the inventor(s). Part B of the Statement is used when there is a chain of title. The "Copies of assignments..." box should be checked when the assignment document(s) (set forth in part A or part B) is/are not recorded in the Office, and a copy of the assignment document(s) is/are attached. When the "Copies of assignments..." box is checked, either the part A box or the part B box, as appropriate, must be checked, and the "Reel____, Frame____" entries should be left blank. If the part B box is checked, and copies of assignments are not included, the "From:_____ To:_____" blank(s) must be filled in. This statement should be used the first time an assignee seeks to take action in an application under 37 CFR 3.73(b), e.g., when signing a terminal disclaimer or a power of attorney.
